APHIS Career Fields: Wildlife Damage Management

Follow Us

Last Modified:

Our wildlife damage management team provides national leadership to resolve conflicts between people and wildlife. Their work protects U.S. agriculture, natural resources, property and infrastructure, and human health and safety.

Join Our Team

We hire wildlife management professionals for a variety of positions.

Search Opportunities at USAJOBS

Temporary or Seasonal Work

We offer a range of exciting temporary and seasonal opportunities.

Get To Know APHIS Wildlife Services

Our Wildlife Services program leads our Nation’s efforts to manage conflicts between people and wildlife so they can coexist. Learn more about our organization.

Want More Videos? Check Out These from Our National Wildlife Research Center

These videos highlight several of the interesting and challenging positions we have at our National Wildlife Research Center.

Research Wildlife Biologist Wildlife Disease
Research Wildlife Biologist Genetics
Animal Care
Chemistry
Technology Transfer
Field Station Leader Utah
Research Wildlife Biologist Carnivore Ecology Utah
Animal Care Specialist Utah
Biological Science Technician Utah
Field Station Leader Mississippi
Research Wildlife Biologist Mississippi
Wildlife Biologist Mississippi
Biological Science Technician Mississippi

See More See Less

What Does It Take to Work for Wildlife Services?

We hire experts in wildlife biology, natural resources management, chemistry, mathematics and statistics, budget and administration, and other specialized professions. Below is a list of common majors and job titles.

Wildlife Damage Management Job Titles

- Wildlife Biologist
- Wildlife Specialist
- State or District Supervisor
- Field Station Leader
- Researchers
- Pilots and Other Specialty Positions

- Seasonal Field Employees

Common Majors

- Wildlife and Fisheries Biology
- Wildlife Management
- Biology
- Biological Sciences
- Ecology
- Natural Resource Management
- Zoology

Learn More About Qualifying for a Position with Wildlife Services (538.52 KB)

Print